

College of Pharmaceutical
Sciences and Drug Manufacturing
A college accredited by "NAQAAE"

CPC 601

COURSE DESCRIPTION:-

The course is designed to integrate and apply the knowledge gained from studying pathophysiology, biochemistry, pharmacology and other pharmaceutical sciences to formulate a rational and safe drug regimen for a particular patient. The course provides the student with an understanding of the rational drug and adjunctive therapy in the treatment of selected diseases. During this course, the student will develop communication skills through presentation and discussion of clinical materials from case studies and current literature with their professors and instructors. The course comprises management of pain, Fever, vomiting, cardiovascular diseases, respiratory diseases, renal diseases and endocrinological diseases.

